EQUIPMENT

TAKEDOWN ULRICH

A forward-looking invention

Minimum luggage on long distances

The TakeDown Ulrich can be stowed comfortably in the backpack and is assembled shortly before approaching the game's surroundings.

Ready to hunt in no time:
The split rifle is assembled ...

... locked with a small rotary motion ...

... and the bolt assembly is inserted. Afterwards,
the rifle scope is mounted.

The TakeDown Ulrich can be disassembled after hunting as fast as it is assembled – even with a hot barrel.

There are different TakeDown mechanics all over the world. However, exclusively the TakeDown Ulrich is 100% reliable in function and extremely robust thanks to its patented star-shaped mechanics. With a minimal rotary motion the rifle is assembled by hand and also disassembled the same way. Therefore, the hunter does not need to use any tools. This TakeDown system always works: In hot or cold conditions, with hot barrel and without affecting the point of impact! The successful bolt action rifle Blaser R93 forms the ideal basis for the TakeDown Ulrich, as its rifle scope comes with an exact one-piece saddle mount making new test firing unnecessary. Thanks to an extremely small packing size, the TakeDown Ulrich can be carried comfortably in a compact daypack. Worldwide there is no other bolt action rifle providing the same advantages as the TakeDown Ulrich.

Most hunters know the problem of arduously heaving the bulky rifle case in jeeps or small aircrafts. When long-distance stalking or hunting in the mountains the rifle hampers you or gets damaged while walking and climbing. Thus, even the most beautiful hunting experience is tarnished.

MAKURA PRECISION STOCKS

The firm grip for better shooting results

SUCCESS HALF STOCKS

Enhanced accuracy with rifle and shotgun – also designed for retrofitting

That the thumbhole stock was customized for hunting in Europe, is one achievement of the MAKURA master gunsmiths. The original from Switzerland is unsurpassedly elegant and provides a plus in shooting accuracy for many hunting gun models.

Sport and precision shooters have known for ages, that a thumbhole stock helps marksmen in being more successful. The advantage: the shooting hand becomes one with the stock. Finger and palm of the hand are in optimal position on the pistol grip.

In 2006, MAKURA master gunsmith Markus Ulrich has for the first time developed a thumbhole stock for the Blaser R93.

With success – as since then, "Success" stocks have been providing more shooting accuracy. In the mean time, we also offer the innovative butt stock with thumb hole for retrofitting in combination with many other guns:

- 1 Success half stock for TakeDown Ulrich and Blaser R93
- 2 Success half stock for bolt action rifles Blaser R8
- 3 Success half stock for Blaser combination guns: O&U shotgun rifle, O&U rifle, Bergstutzen and drillings
- 4 Success half stock for shotguns Blaser F3
- 5 Success half stock for single shot rifles Blaser K95
- 6 Success half stock for bolt action rifles SAUER S 202
- 7 Success half stock for semi-automatic rifles SAUER S 303
- 8 Success half stock for bolt action rifles Merkel RX
- 9 Success half stock for semi-automatic rifles Merkel SR 1

When we of the MAKURA AG developed a thumbhole stock for the Blaser R93 some years ago, we already knew that we would herald a trend, that up to now almost every reputable gun manufacturer has been following. Yet, not every thumbhole stock is like the other – and this is what some hunters had to learn by now.

Everyone, who gets into shooting position with an original stock from the studio of the Swiss master gunsmiths, feels it right away: they know their craft. The rifle naturally becomes part of the body. Its sleek shape gives the one-piece Success full stock its elegant hunting appearance. Every R93 and R8 rifle can be retrofitted with a Success full stock. We also offer our Success full stocks as a particularly rugged version in laminated wood.

When being on driven hunts, precision and speed are equally paramount, as after the first piece of game, further pieces will come.

Every shot that is quickly available enhances the chance to hit again. The Plus Success stock then provides a calm shooting position and rapid reloading.

The Blaser R8 is one of the fastest bolt action rifles worldwide and it is also the first bolt action rifle by Blaser featuring a quickly removable magazine. Magazine and trigger are combined in one construction unit, giving the rifle its compact size. As a bolt action rifle for in-line repeating, the R8 offers the shooter the advantage of remaining focused on the target with muzzle and eye while repeating.

By combining these advantages with a Success Plus full stock, the hunter gains both – shooting accuracy and a safe grip. The additional benefit is the spare magazine, which is integrated in the stock. The shooter thus disposes of 8 shots that are immediately available. In "normal" use, the magazine reservoir is closed with the R8 magazine cover.

We also offer our Success Plus full stocks in laminated wood "African Trail".

Before the art of shooting accurately comes the art of stock making. A stock that keeps the hand in its natural position actively supports better shooting results. When the shooting finger naturally points in the aiming direction, pulling the trigger becomes a real pleasure.

A perfect alternative to the stock with thumb hole is the recently developed Evolution stock for the R8. The one-piece stock provides special characteristics: Similar to the Success thumbhole stock, it keeps the shooting hand in a natural position, which makes the shooting finger point naturally in the shooting direction. The pistol grip is steep and features finger rests. Its particular shape allows the thumb to grip comfortably around the stock. With "normal" gun stocks, the thumb has to grip over the rifle butt, so that the hand cannot keep its natural, diagonal pointing position. The Evolution stock for the Blaser R8 is made of grained root wood and the particularly robust laminated wood "African Trail".

Even when sport shooting with the R8, the Evolution stock plays to its strengths.

Worshipping game and respecting nature are the soul of hunting and the inspiration for elaborate gun engravings.

Breathtaking and inspired by the love of nature, a master engraving perfectly complements the artistic work of the gunsmith. Exquisite stock woods bear witness to the process of becoming and growing in wild nature.

The TakeDown Ulrich "Prinzregent" is inspired by the mountain hunt. Chamois and wood grouse are impressively put into focus.

The golden autumn leaves of the Taiga were the inspiration to create the TakeDown Ulrich "Russian Autumn Leaves" with deeply engraved leaf arabesques as well as leaves and fruits from shrubs inlaid in different shades of gold.

THE MAKURA MOUNTAIN BACKPACK Compact, comfortable and well-organized

A hunting day in the mountains is particularly challenging. The hunter needs maximum freedom of movement and yet has to carry along all equipment he needs for one or two days. Exactly for this purpose, the MAKURA AG developed the Takedown Ulrich mountain backpack, exclusively manufactured by the backpack specialist Deuter.

A compact mountain backpack should not be wider than the back. The MAKURA AG knows the needs of mountain hunters and what makes up an excellent backpack:

- Relieving, anatomic carrying system with particularly wide, padded straps and soft edgings
- Removable hip carrying strap system
- Easy adjustment to any back length
- Padded, lateral outside pockets for the rifle scope
- Noiseless quick-release fasteners
- Slings and clasps to fix the cape or a blanket
- Document compartment in the cover
- Rain-protection cover
- Seat mat in the back compartment
- Volume: 38 l

A particular highlight:
The hunted down game is transported on top of the backpack. Thanks to the game transportation cape, hunter and backpack thus are optimally protected against dirt. The game transportation cape is attached to the carrying system, while the game is tied up with the red strap system. The hood protects the hunter's head and neck. The game transportation cape is washable and can be stowed away after drying in the outside cover compartment of the backpack. It is also available separately.

Our experienced knife makers created a new hunting knife collection of superlatives. Rustproof damask steel in different patterns and precious natural materials turn every knife into a unique piece.

The damask blades are made of 320 – 340 layers of three different kinds of steel: Sandvik 12c27, 19c27 and 302. This provides a blade hardness of approx. 60-62 rc on the Rockwell scale. All knives come with a high-quality leather sheath in an exclusive cardboard can.

MAKURA: Fresh ideas, Swiss precision.

Where there is room to work meticulously, the best ideas can be put into practice.

And this is also where a small manufactory is one step ahead of any big company, by following the simple principle "class instead of mass".

People have long since been used to order goods with manufacturers of mass products, to compare prices on the internet and to make their "bargain". This may often be a good thing, however, the perception and appreciation of hand-made, individual products seem to fade. Yet when it comes to hunting, nobody likes to compromise and every hunter knows: no one hunts like the other.

When Manfred Treutler asked his gunsmith Markus Ulrich some years ago to convert his rifle into a safely working "real" TakeDown, he made it for the reason, that none of the mass-produced rifles satisfied him in terms of handling and reliability. The result of Markus Ulrich's ingenuity however fascinated him and gave Manfred Treutler the impulse to found the MAKURA AG. Being a small, fine think tank, it dedicates itself to individual manufacturing in high-quality handicraft for those hunters, setting their individual standards of value.

The next huge success was the development of thumbhole stocks for hunting rifles. Before, nobody recognized the potential of the thumb hole for hunting. Only Markus Ulrich knew how to design a thumbhole stock that combined both hunting aesthetics and ergonomics in such a graceful way.

The question "Can we improve this or make it different?", is our driving force. This is why we warmly welcome all, who bring in their own personal ideas or their own craftsmanship. And this is also how, for example, the hand-forged hatchet became part of our product range – simply, because it is unique.

Master gunsmith and master stock maker Markus Ulrich (left), graduate economist Manfred Treutler (middle) and wood specialist Paul von Rickenbach (right) perfectly complement one another.

When purchasing the wood for the gun stocks, the buyer's sense of proportion and material is paramount for the future processing.

The stock wood warehouse is a true "treasury", that is rich in precious walnut tree woods.

New, premium design products and noble commodities are made of stock wood residues.

Wood care kit

It takes about 500 years until a walnut tree in Turkey and its neighboring countries can be harvested. The government licenses are strictly limited and the transport from remote regions to the specialized sawmill is laborious. We think: such a valuable present of nature requires respectful handling.

Experienced specialists decide, in which angle the branch of a centuries-old walnut tree has to be sawn. This may lead to unpleasant surprises, because during the process of rooting, stones can grow in or hollow spaces are formed. Thus not only whole parts of the expensive wood may turn out to be useless, but also considerable problems when sawing are caused. The plates for the gun stocks that are produced have to have a thickness of at least 60 mm. This consequently is the reason, why exquisite stock wood cannot be cheap.

Cuttings, that are produced when processing the stock wood blank, are far too valuable for us to be thrown away. Perfectly matching residues are selected and skillfully glued, so that premium individual pieces made from stock wood are manufactured in our workshops. Yet, they need as much skill and experience in processing as our oil stocks:

With grinding paper in different, decreasing grain sizes, we grind, oil and dry again and again, until the surface is handy and has the touch and feel of velvet. Eye-catching highlights are for example the massive stock wood tables or the artistically crafted SolidWood bowls which we offer in different sizes.

Whether gun stock, knife handle or objet d'art – that your wood preserves its mysterious glow, a wood care kit is included in the scope of delivery. In addition, you can reorder our premium stock care, with which we ourselves refine the precious wood.

Those hunters having particular demands go beyond the boundaries of their own hunting territory. This is why we meet them all over the world and exchange the best addresses for perfect hunting travels with them.

Our own hunting activities take us to Argentina, Canada, Alaska, Kamtchatka, Romania, South Africa, Namibia and New Zealand. Hunting the mysterious Tahr on the southern island of New Zealand was one of the most extraordinary hunting experiences for us.

On the polar circle we hunted the musk ox, a species that seems to originate from a long-gone time.

We are very close to those hunting organizers who have exceeded our expectations by far. If you are planning a hunting trip yourself, we are happy to share our best tips with you and also hand on field reports of other hunters, with whom we are in regular contact.

Many outfitters worldwide offer by now the possibility to carry the TakeDown Ulrich or test Success stocks. If you desire, we will be pleased to support you in organizing your hunting trip.

South Africa, Zimbabwe, Namibia

When returning from their safari with our partners in South Africa, many internationally experienced hunters are very impressed. One feels reminded of the times of Hemingway or Ruarks, as this safari comprises intensive stalking and is guided by a Professional Hunter who is accompanied by a tracker.

Hunting amidst almost untouched nature is a real highlight for many hunters coming from Europe. Because where else can you be on the road for days without coming across a human habitation? Here, in the southern part of Africa you will find everything in abundance: strong trophies, the country's vastness and the campfires in the camp or in the luxury lodge attract likewise.

Discover the advantages of a TakeDown Ulrich, when stalking over far distances or rely on the calm shooting characteristics of your Success thumbhole stock on long shooting distances. We are looking forward to handing our experiences on and are happy to contact our South African partner for you, true to the motto: Do not keep something good just to yourself.
